

Removal of metals and other foreign bodies

Removal of metals and other foreign bodies

Removal of piercings and rings from the surgical site is important as they often act as a nidus for infection; metallic objects could also potentially lead to thermal injury when diathermy is used. In addition, finger rings or toe rings can cause digital vascular compromise if there is postoperative oedema following operations on the extremities. - Removal of metals and other foreign bodies

Removal of piercings and rings from the surgical site is important as they often act as a nidus for infection; metallic objects could also potentially lead to thermal injury when diathermy is used. In addition, finger rings or toe rings can cause digital vascular compromise if there is postoperative oedema following operations on the extremities. - Removal of metals and other foreign bodies

Removal of piercings and rings from the surgical site is important as they often act as a nidus for infection; metallic objects could also potentially lead to thermal injury when diathermy is used. In addition, finger rings or toe rings can cause digital vascular compromise if there is postoperative oedema following operations on the extremities. -

Revision #1

Created 2025-12-31 15:26:03 UTC by Omar Ayman

Updated 2025-12-31 15:26:03 UTC by Omar Ayman